One Act Plays

Lives of Great Waitresses by Nina Shengold

Director: Brendan Phelan They say that being in love is a similar experience to when your waitress arrives at your table with your dessert. Through the medium of food and beverages – truly great waitresses can make love to their customers from the start of their shift until closing time. And sometimes to a large table of diners, without ever dropping an order or letting their smile slip. Here, we meet Yetta, Kay, Tammy Sue, and Melissa, who explain what is involved in the lives of the greats!

Yetta: Deirdre O' Sullivan

Kay: Niamh Cartwright

Tummies Sue: Emma O'Brien

Melissa: Eimear Slattery

The Role of Della by John J Wooten.

Elizabeth Ryan:              Emma O' Brien

Ms Stewart:                      Eimear Slattery

Knightsbridge by John Mortimer.

Director: Chris Ó Conchúir Francesca brings her lover, Henry, to her mother's flat to announce their intention to get married. While waiting for Mrs Stokes, Francesca answers a mysterious phone call. From what he overhears, Henry concludes that Mrs Stokes is a member of the oldest profession. It is later revealed that Mrs Stokes deals in nothing more erotic than antique furniture.
